

CHAPEL COTTAGE, COLBY comfortably accommodates four people. It is a two bedroom, one bath, two-storey Manx stone cottage.

Our cosy cottage features a prettily planted and lawned walled and garden – facing south and sunny all day and all evening. It has an outdoor patio dining area with seating and a table.

The kitchen is superbly equipped with a range cooker dishwasher, microwave, and there is a washer and dryer. Beech worksurfaces and a vintage pine farmhouse table complete the look.

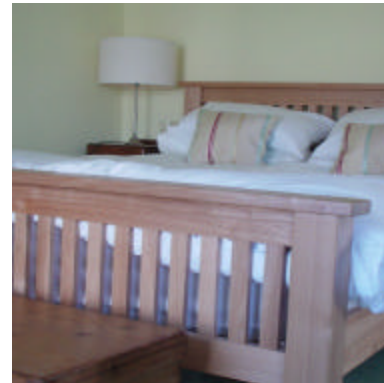

Simply but comfortably furnished, the cottage includes a dining area in the kitchen with seating for six, a cosy sitting room and a very convenient boot room for all outdoor equipment and downstairs cloakroom. The cottage has central heating and a natural flame stove comfort. With beamed ceilings and uneven floors, Chapel Cottage is full of quirky character.

for year-round

The master bedroom has an oak queen bed and lots of space, and there is large daybed in the second bedroom, which again can make a queen bed if preferred.

The bathroom has a full bathtub with shower.

There is on-street parking right outside, and off-street for motorbikes. Chapel Cottage is a bracing stroll from Gansey beach, near to the Steam Railway and minutes from Castletown in the sunny South of the Island.

We recommend a car to see the best of the island, but excellent public transport connects Colby with the rest of the island should you prefer.
